SKILL-BUILDING SESSIONS

Being Yourself in the Workplace and Belonging:

What should you look for in an employer, and what questions should you ask yourself about belonging in the environment?

Belong with Black Studies and Peace Studies:

What should you look for in an employer, and what questions should you ask yourself about belonging in the environment?

Build Your Personal Marketing Plan: Design your personal brand to help you launch your professional career! Utilize business skills learned in class to market and position yourself. Create your own personal SWOT and learn to identify collaborators.

Career Fair 101: The Career Fair is coming up. How should you prepare, and what should you do to secure your dream job?

Dare to Fail: How can you embrace failure as an opportunity to build your career path and find success?

Discover the Possibilities: Considering a position in sales and curious about career paths? Learn more about this fast-paced and growing field from industry experts, who will share their experience and provide real-world advice.

Imagine a Successful, Enjoyable Career: What will bring you happiness after graduation, both professionally and personally?

Land an Awesome Internship: Internships provide you with an invaluable opportunity to gain real-world professional experience. Bring your questions to a team of industry experts who will share tips on finding internships, what companies are looking for, capturing the experience on your resume, and leveraging your internship for a full time job opportunity.

Lead with Strength - Women in Business: How can a woman's voice be heard equally in the business world? Discuss relevant questions on how women lead teams, take risks, build support networks, and pursue professional goals.

Make the Transition: You've been a student for most of your life. Are you ready to enter the workplace? Learn from recent alumni, who will share their insights and experiences. Be prepared to ask questions about what to expect, such as your first week on the job, adjusting to work hours, and getting started successfully. If you have worries about graduating, you are not alone! This panel will help you prepare with honest advice.

Rock Your Digital Brand: "To succeed in this world, you have to be known to people" – Sonia Sotomayor. How do you build your network? In this session learn best practices for expanding your network including being intentional, enhancing your online reputation, how to reach out and prepare for career conversations. Plan to leave this session with an updated electronic signature and tips for expanding your network.

Stand Out from the Crowd: Make a positive first impression and differentiate yourself from a large field of candidates. Learn ways to improve your resume, cover letters, and communication methods.
